

THEY FOUND "DADDY."

Four Little Tots Take a Long Journey in Search of Their Father.

The following touching scene is described concerning four little German-American children who were traveling alone from one of the Eastern States of America to the new State of Washington, on the Pacific coast. Owing to some blunder they were put off at Walla Walla, more than a hundred miles from the place they were going to, and here the kind-hearted station agent found the eldest girl, only twelve, crying bitterly, and the others trying to comfort her. One of them, with arms twined about her sister's neck, was saying:

"Father will soon come, sister. He don't know we are here yet, but he will soon come, I know he will."

"But we are so hungry," the elder replied.

"But," said the sweet angel, patting her on the back, "never mind that, sister. It won't be long till father will come, and we will have plenty to eat."

When the agent heard this, and saw this evidence of sweet affection, he asked them: "And are you so hungry, children?"

"Yes, sir, we are starving."

"What! starving children in Walla Walla! This can not be," he mused. And the telephone soon told some one: "A meal for four starving children, quick!"

As quick as the speediest team at the station could bring them over to the city, they were here, and soon sat before the best there was in the land. And this is their simple story: The father some time before had come West to live near Waitsburg, leaving the mother and children to follow as soon as he was ready to receive them. But in the meantime the mother sickened and suddenly died. Kind friends forwarded the children to the sorrowing father, but through some mistake they stopped off at Walla Walla, and although the father anxiously awaited them at Waitsburg, they remained there from Thursday until Saturday night without a scrap to eat, sleeping as best they could on bench and floor, their youth and native modesty preventing them from making their condition known, until the elder, worn out and weary with watching for the loving face that never came, and famished from hunger, broke completely down; and thus their sad condition became known.

But ready hands and willing hearts were soon found, as is always the case when the weak and tender are in distress. And when the evening was come, and the noisy train, with its glare of light and interior splendor, left the station, the glad, thankful, yet wondering children sat amid the soft cushions and resplendent luxury of the palace car, with a big basket near them containing more of good things than they ever before possessed, and were borne swiftly away northward on their journey, as the littlest tot of all said, "to find daddy."

THE RUSSIAN METHOD.

A Unique Way of Securing the Surrender of Dangerous Criminals.

In the course of his tour of inspection through the Caucasus last autumn Prince Dondukov-Korsakoff passed close to the village of Stary Yort, where a native Colonel was not long previously murdered out of revenge, and where the murderers were being screened from the authorities by the inhabitants. As they refused to give up the assassins the Prince ordered all the inhabitants of the village to be assembled on his route two miles off. Here the Prince refused to accept their greeting of bread and salt, and rated them right soundly in the severest terms of the Russian vocabulary. At the same time he ordered their elders to be arrested on the spot, and gave them one month in which to surrender the murderers. If they remained recalcitrant at the end of that term the severest punishment was to be inflicted. With the usual obstinacy of the Chechen tribes, who continue their opposition to Russia as long as, if not longer than, any of the other tribes of the Caucasus, the murderers were not given up at the end of the month, whereupon a "military execution" was ordered to be made. At daybreak the village was surrounded by a cordon of troops, and all the inhabitants were disarmed and forbidden ever to carry arms again. A detachment of troops were quartered in the village, and 1,200 rubles was exacted for the benefit of the murdered man's family. An elder was also appointed and sent by the authorities with a salary, to be paid by the village, of 600 rubles a year. The murderers have now at last been surrendered, and the troops consequently withdrawn.—St. Petersburg Cor. London Times.

Metamorphosing a Skeleton.

The Lowell (Mass.) Courier tells an amusing story to the effect that a number of Boston men, learning of an adult man skeleton in Australia who weighed but 34 pounds, combined in a speculation to bring him to this country for exhibition. They gave him $500 bonus and a third interest in the receipts, and put him on shipboard for England. Sea air, change of food, etc., began to fatten him, and when he arrived in London he weighed 184 pounds.

JAMES MEANS' $3 & $4 SHOES

"Competition is the Life of Trade." and if you have not seen our latest improved goods you cannot imagine how lively trade is, or how hard our competitors have to work to keep within sight of us. Ask your retailer for the James Means' $3 Shoe, or the James Means' $4 Shoe, and you will see.

Positively none genuine unless having our name and price stamped plainly on the sole. Your retailer will supply you with shoes so stamped if you insist upon his doing so; if you do not in it, a mere retail will coax you into buying inferior shoes upon which they make a larger profit.

You cannot afford to do without them.

Such has been the recent progress in our branch of industry that we are now able to affirm that the James Means' $3 shoe is in every respect equal to the shoes which only a few years ago were retail at eight or ten dollars. If you will try on a pair you will be convinced that we do not exaggerate. Ours are the original $3 and $4 shoes, and those who imitate our system of business are unable to compete with us in quality of factory products. In our lines we are the largest manufacturers in the United States.

Shoes from our celebrated factory are sold by wide-awake retailers in all parts of the country. We will place them easily within your reach in any State or territory if you will invest one cent in a postal card and write to us.
